djtyrant writes "The ESA has just opened up their website for E3 2009 to be held this year in Los Angeles, CA from June 2nd through the 4th. Along with registration for attendees and press they have released a list of the current exhibitors which includes last year's holdout Activision Blizzard (or as I like to call them Actilizzard). The big three are back under one roof again and a solid lineup of game companies will be out in full force.

Will we see the circle theater again from EA? Or will we see a scaled back E3 even as it expands to the more open environment? We'd love to hear from you guys so mail us your thoughts about the new E3 and any predictions for this years show (Wii2, Xbox 720, etc.) Send your thoughts to mailbag at orangeloungeradio dot com and we will select some to read on air.

The list of exhibitors follows after the break." From: <http://www.e3expo.com/>
