Seriously, why isn't there a Team Fortress 2 show yet?

Today's track is the Theme for Team Fortress 2

Please note due to copyright issues I can not make this song available for you to download directly. But there's a workaround to this.

What can I say about TF2? It's a FPS made by Valve and released originally with the Orange Box. But it really has come a long way and it's one of the most popular games to play online. They have made over 100 updates to it and it keeps getting better and better. Though this game's music doesn't stand out so much (considering it's all about the shooting), it's really good.

The main theme of TF2 also appeared on the first trailer shown for it. It gives it an old action show vibe to it with the whole "presentation of the team" thing, like in "A-Team" or other similar songs. And considering how similar TF2 can be to one of the shows, this song is really blends in perfectly.

By the way, if you want to get the soundtrack to it and to TF2 and all of the Orange Box (Half-Life 2, Episodes 1 and 2 and Portal), you can download Audiosurf on Steam and you'll get the complete soundtrack. And you don't have to buy it either, just download the demo and it will be there along with the games files. Though Audiosurf is only 10 bucks and it's pretty much worth a purchase if you like Ryhthm/Music games.
