

Written by DarkTetsuya
Tuesday, 18 May 2010 18:57

{audio}<http://angry-gamers.com/music/battle.mp3>{/audio}

Technically I can't offer it to you directly, but I bet if you asked nicely, @LOKIOLR (on twitter) might still have it...

One of the biggest summer blockbusters to come out in theaters during our eight years on the internet, would have to be Quentin Tarantino's Kill Bill saga. A (really violent) story about revenge, which also featured some awesome action sequences, lots of swordfighting and martial arts action.

One of the songs on the soundtrack was 'Battle Without Honor or Humanity', which interestingly enough made an appearance in DDR SuperNOVA on the PS2 back in 2007. But that's not the version I'm featuring.

After watching the Blu-Ray version of Volume 1, I remembered that there was a remix of this song done by our very own LOKI! It takes everything that was awesome about the original, while adding just enough new to make it kick even more ass! To me it sounds almost like a mashup with something out of The Matrix movies (which were also still relatively popular) for a very epic mashup.