

There may not be an Electronic Entertainment Expo anymore, but that didn't stop the gaming news from flowing in early June, as we take some time to reflect on the Summer Game Fest and Xbox events from this week. Lots of updates on games, as well as game trailers and release dates, there really is something for everyone. 2023 has been a great year for gaming so far, and we look at the games currently released, such as Diablo 4, and the games we look forward to in the future, like Final Fantasy 7: Rebirth. But seriously... is something going to happen to Tifa? Yikes. All this and more make up another week of the longest running video game podcast, Orange Lounge Radio!

Also in the News:

* New Friday the 13th Game

* Activision Pulls Streamer's Microtransaction Skin, and good riddance!

* Final Fantasy XVI Demo Tomorrow
