

An old pal of the show, Jonas, from The Big Anime Game Room re-unites with the show, and catches us up on one of his new hobbies, organizing video game rooms for local conventions. Diego from TBAGR joins us as well to talk about some of the crazy and interesting experiences from the various conventions they've worked with. They also join us to talk about the news tonight, which includes a new subscription program that EA is bringing to the Xbox One. Could a publisher-fronted subscription be a good thing for the industry, or are we not interested at all? We find out, with our live audience...

Also in the News:
