After an unexpected week off, we are back to talk about the games we have been playing and the news from the gaming week. No Man's Sky is set for a big patch this week which many are approaching as an all new game. Do we think this was time well spent by the developers, or are we surprised they didn't move on to a new project? We discuss with our LIVE listeners.

Also in the news:

* Mario Kart Hot Wheels

* Tingle Horror Game was cancelled

* Neopets returns

* Gearbox pokes fun at their own AI bug
