A year is a long time in gaming memories so we take a look inside our time capsule made one year ago to see who made the best predictions for 2018! Which ones came true, and which ones were so bad in retrospect that we gave a good laugh? We also make our 2019 predictions to open next year, and then get into the week in gaming news which includes Bungie and Activison parting ways. How will this effect the Destiny series? How is this different from the last time Bungie split from a partnership which was Microsoft? We discuss and cover the other big gaming news of the week!

Also in the news:

* Nintendo Games now on Humble Store

* Gearbox and Lawyer DRAMA

* The Division 2 to Epic Games store

* YouTube / Formula One issues
