

Tonight we tackle the tough topic of Activisions recent "threat" to stop supporting Sony. Is this something that should be taken literally? Or has the whole thing been blown out of context? Our listeners chime in with their thoughts. Also, more developments show up on the "new XBOX console" front. Could it be that the denial of one representative of a new console was actually just a confirmation of something else we were speculating? You can expect to pay a little more money for Band Hero this fall, and DJ hero breaks the triple digit mark in price too. Hey wait a minute, isnt Activision the same company that was being critical of price points? Hmmm... All this and more including your chatroom antics, phone calls, e-mails and more on the interactive talk show where EVERY gamer has a voice: Orange Lounge Radio

{enclose OLR_328_062109.mp3}