

President Cat thinks you should listen to this weeks episode of OLR. Yes, during the reading of Japanese release dates, the strange phenomenon known as "President Cat" begins. There is plenty of other gaming news though, including a lawsuit against sellers of the R4 device, and a new pokemon game from Nintendo. Motion Control for the PS3 might be out sooner than you think, but not in the exact way you were thinking. Also, a racing classic revival gives former arcade employees nightmares. Prepare for the return of DO DO DO DO DOOO DOOOOO In part B tonight, we get majorly distracted by our twitter, but we still manage to cram in plenty of discussion on a Wii Exercise bike, XBOX 360 locking out unauthorized memory units and some details on the "Demo Play" mode in New Super Mario Bros. Wii. All this and MORE including your chatroom antics, phone calls, e-mails, tweets (and plenty of them) on what is one of our craziest shows of the year. Its the show where EVERY gamer has a voice, Orange Lounge Radio! Meow!

{enclose OLR_341_101809.mp3}