On a podcast-exclusive edition of the show, we catch up with the week's gaming news from the show we missed while Rob was traveling. The NES Classic Edition, or the "Mini-NES" was released, and they are proving hard to find. Seems to be a track record for Nintendo that there's not enough supply to meet demand. Do our hosts think that Nintendo really can't budget appropriately, or are they doing this on purpose? We discuss in studio with DarkSakura, who returns to OLR for this special show!

Also in the News:

* Grand Theft Auto online getting TRON-style addition

* Mass Effect Andromeda Trailer

* Generation 2 Pokemon spotted in Pokemon Go data files

* Final Fantasy XV PS4 Pro Patch
