

With a big showcase today, Microsoft showed many new games coming out for the next 12 months on the xbox platform and PC as well. In a bit of a surprise, they went as far to already incorporate Blizzard games into the showcase as well, when the acquisition still isn't complete. We talk about our reactions to the showcase and what we thought of the announcements, as well as what this might mean for Microsoft's future. It all doesn't end there though with plenty more announcements this week, even though something was missing from the LA Convention Center this week. All this news, our gaming weeks and MORE on another week of the longest running video game podcast, Orange Lounge Radio!

Also in the News:

- * SummerGamesFest Announcements
- * Devolver Digital Showcase
- * Netflix to make more Video Game based Anime
- * Grammys to add Video Game Category
